God is truly in the detail, and I am nothing if not obsessive about this - or, for want of a better way of putting it, a perfectionist to the core.

I have been freelance for the duration of my professional career, which I am wholeheartedly proud of. Each day has offered a new set of challenges, a brand new project, or presented a new skill to learn. I enjoy turning my hand, constantly growing, and am forever seeking new inspiration.

Please get in touch with any project enquiries, or if you would like to know any more about my work or experience.
